

Car sickness

Acclimate your dog to the car. Lots of very short rides to a fun place. Down the block to a park or just down the block to a walk. He needs to learn to look out the window to avoid nausea.

Sometimes, for very fearful dogs, feeding them their dinner in the car - first with the car turned off then later with the car running helps them overcome their issues.

Try a filled (not much) kong type toy. Smear peanut butter on the interior and let him have it in the car with the car parked in your driveway. Eventually, Move the car just to a new parking spot while he is chewing. And, when that doesn't stop him from chewing, drive a little further.

Your vet may recommend an anti nausea pill.
